Where: We're fishing in River Guden at the small town of Stevnstrup a few miles west of Randers. The car park is located at the end of Engvej, from which paths leads to all the sectors. 4 Sectors will be used, A and B downstream of the car park and C and D upstream the car park. There is a long walk for the pegs furthest away, a wagon is recommended. See map for details:

Parking: ONLY at the designated car park at the end of Engvej. Don't park in front of the river as the canoes and boats need access to the river as well. Park with care, to let other cars pass without trouble.

Training: No day ticket is needed for this part of the river, and everybody are welcome to fish the sectors including the day before the Danish Spring Cup 2010.

About the venue: River Guden at Stevnstrup has become popular in recent years, due to the amounts of fish and the techniques used to catch them. During spring, the main target is the roach that are moving withing the river to spawn, but also bream, rudd, bleak, white bream, perch and ide are present. The River Guden at Stevnstrup is only lightly regulated, hence the pegs can be very different both between sectors but also within sectors. The key to success is to be able to adapt between multiple techniques, depending on which is the best for the drawn peg. The deepest part of the river can be both right at your feet (mainly B and C-sector) as well as at the opposite bank (mainly A and D-sector).

The groundbait have been limited at 17 litres, as it is regarded as more than enough for the duration of 4 hours. Examples of the mixes used at the river is listed below:
